Scripture Reflections

+Fr. Bob Catlett, M.Div.

January 1, 2025 – Solemnity of Mary, the Mother of God: “God sent his Son, born of a woman,” proclaims St. Paul. This is the mystery we celebrate today: Mary’s role in our redemption. While contemplating this awesome reality, we prepare to begin a new year, strengthened by the blessing from the Book of Numbers. O Mary, we place this year under your protection and guidance. (Numbers 6:22-27, Galatians 4:4-7, Luke 2:16-21)

January 5, 2025 – The Epiphany of the Lord: Here comes everyone...it’s the Catholic Church. Today’s passages from Isaiah and Matthew foreshadow the reality proclaimed in the selection from Ephesians: The Church, firmly rooted in the history of ancient Israel, is for all people. We want to remember this in our daily lives and try to let Christ shine through us. (Isaiah 60:1-6, Ephesians 3:2-3a, 5-6, Matthew 2:1-12)

January 12, 2025 – The Baptism of the Lord: The first and second readings glance back over the Advent-Christmas cycle, which concludes today. Both passages stress the mercy of God. Lord Jesus, in accepting baptism, you expressed your solidarity with sinners. Help us to recognize our sins, level the valleys and hills in our lives, and live in ongoing conversion, “eager to do what is good.” (Isaiah 40:1-5, 9-11, Titus 2:11-14, 3:4-7, Luke 3:15-16, 21-22)

January 19, 2025 – 2nd Sunday in Ordinary Time: This Sunday’s first and third readings focus on a common biblical theme: God’s marriage to his people. Jubilation fills the air, for the Lord is good. Reflecting on the second reading, we ask the Holy Spirit to pour out his gifts on all of us, God’s people. (Isaiah 62:1-5, 1 Corinthians 12:4-11, John 2:1-11)

January 26, 2025 – 3rd Sunday in Ordinary Time: These readings remind us that the Lord is present in the Mass. The Book of Nehemiah presents the people revering God’s presence in his word. In First Corinthians, St. Paul explains that each of us, with our unique gifts, is a member of Christ’s body. In St. Luke’s Gospel, Jesus proclaims himself God’s envoy, bodily present among his people. At the Eucharist, we want to be more aware of God’s presence. (Nehemiah 8:2-4a, 5-6, 8-10, 1 Corinthians 12:12-30, Luke 1:1-4, 4:14-21)

 First Corinthians

ON SUNDAYS between Christmas Time and Lent, the Second Reading at Mass is taken from the First Letter of Saint Paul to the Corinthians. On Ordinary Time Sundays throughout the year, the Second Reading gives us several excerpts from the same New Testament letter for several consecutive weeks. Usually we hear from a given letter for one series of weeks every three years. However, Paul's First Letter to the Corinthians is an exception. It is a long, important letter, so the lectionary divides it up into three parts. We hear from it every year as Ordinary Time first gets underway.

Earlier in his career, St. Paul had made a lengthy visit to Corinth. After he left, members of the young Christian community contacted him about some problems and questions they were facing in his absence. St. Paul deals with these issues one by one. When we read the letter today, we learn about the challenges in the early church and the position Paul held on controversial topics, and we realize that some things haven't changed. It is comforting to know that the issues we face today are not new and that the solutions Paul proposes are still practical and inspirational.

The letter includes many famous passages: the divided community of Corinth, God's choice of the weak instead of the strong, the Cross of Christ as a stumbling block for many, the unmarried life, the imperative to preach the Gospel, the Body of Christ, the gift of love, the Resurrection of Christ, and the eternal life of believers. For several weeks each year, we hear familiar passages from one of the Bible's great letters. The pastoral, hopeful message of Paul can always inspire those who drop everything else and listen to his words.
